DEMOCRACY IN MODERN EUROPE

HIST4450, Fall 2008

Scott A. Gavorsky T-Th, 2:00pm-3:15pm Old College Building 100 Gavorsky@uga.edu Office: LeConte 239 Hours: T 10:00am-11:30am Th 11:30am-1:00pm Phone: (706) 542-2539

The rise in most European countries of political systems that allowed the participation of all members of their populations in the formulation of public policies—which one might term as democracies—is one of the major developments of modern history. We will examine the development of democratic governments from the later seventeenth through the early twenty-first century. Different conceptions of democracy—is it a set of values, collections of institutions, or the following of particular practices?—will guide our discussions.

COURSE SYLLABUS

Please Note: The course syllabus is a general plan for the course; deviations announced to the class by the instructor may be necessary.

Dissertations, 7th edition (ISBN 9780226823379)

WebCT: There is a WebCT site for this course. Most of the readings not from the texts above will be available through the WebCT site.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

- 1) All academic work must meet the standards contained in "A Culture of Honesty." Each student is responsible to inform themselves about those standards before performing any academic work.
- 2) Class Participation and Attendance: The class is designed around the open discussion of readings; students are expected to come to class having completed all readings and prepared to discuss the issues they raise. Any student with more than two (2) unexcused absences will be penalized one letter grade per additional absence. It is the student's responsibility to explain any absence to the instructor at the earliest opportunity.

- 3) Written Assignments: Written assignments for this course should be prepared using a proper academic format; I strongly recommend the Turabian Manual for Writers of Research Papers. Assignments will be graded on both content (accuracy, argument and evidence) and writing (grammar, syntax, clarity, structure and style). All overdue written assignments will be penalized 1 grade (B+ to B, etc.) per day (including weekends and holidays).
- 4) Short Papers: Students will write two (2) short papers (5-6 pages each). The topics for the papers will be handed out in class approximately two weeks before the paper due date. The papers will require minimal outside research.
- 5) Research Paper: All students will write one (1) research paper of 10-12 pages examining a topic of the student's choosing after consultation with me. Each student will need to discuss their topic selection with me prior to Thursday, 2 October 2008. A short prospectus (2-3 pages) outlining a preliminary argument and preliminary bibliography with a minimum of four primary sources and three secondary sources will be due at the start of class on Thursday, 4 November 2008. The final paper will be due at the end of the exam period for this course (Thursday, 11 December 2008 at 6:30pm).
